RE: AOR on behalf of the Pennsylvania Democratic Party

Dear Mr. Herman:

This Advisory Opinion Request is submitted on behalf of the Pennsylvania Democratic Party ("PDP"). We request that the Commission issue an opinion within 30 days of this request in accordance with its informal practice to expedite "certain highly significant time sensitive requests." See Advisory Opinion Procedure, 74 Fed. Reg. 32160, 32162 (July 7, 2009).

The PDP wishes to disseminate mailings that expressly advocate the election of only non-federal candidates. A representative mailing is attached to this request and it should be assumed that the amount and size devoted to persuasion content will be the same for all such mailings and that the PDP wishes to allocate a half panel in each of these mailings to educate readers regarding Pennsylvania's recently enacted voter identification law). The PDP further wishes to pay for these mailings exclusively with funds that are in a non-federal account and are regulated exclusively by Pennsylvania law.

On March 15, 2012, the State of Pennsylvania enacted one of the most restrictive Voter Identification laws in the country (General information regarding Pennsylvania's Voter ID Law is attached to this request). The November, 2012 general election is the first election that this law will be in effect. The PDP is concerned that many voters will not be able to vote on election day because they do not have proper identification and would like to include information regarding the new Voter Identification law in mailings that it will undertake between now and election day. Other than the Voter ID information and a reference to Election Day, the mailings will not contain any other voting information (such as when times polling places are open or the location of polling places).

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

- 1) Whether the exhortation to vote in the proposed mailing is “incidental” in accordance with 11 C.F.R. § 100.24(a)(3)(ii).
- 2) If the answer to Question 1 is Yes, does the inclusion of information regarding the new Pennsylvania Voter ID law require that the mailing be paid for as a “federal election activity.”

DISCUSSION

As part of the Bipartisan Campaign Reform Act of 2002 (“BCRA”), Congress required that state party committees pay for certain communications that solely reference federal candidates with either federal funds or a combination of federal and limited non-federal funds commonly referred to as “Levin Funds.” 2 U.S.C. §§ 431(20)(A) & 441i(b). However, public communications that solely reference non-federal candidates may be paid exclusively with non-federal funds so long as the communication does not otherwise qualify as a federal election activity. 2 U.S.C. § 431(20)(B)(i). Specifically, in this request, the PDP seeks to determine whether the proposed mailing is, or is not covered, by the Commission’s definition of get-out-the-vote as defined by 11 C.F.R. § 100.24(a)(3).

The Commission’s definition of “federal election activity” was recently amended in light of Shays v. Federal Election Commission, 528 F.3d 914 (D.C. Cir 2008). As part of the Commission’s amended definition, the Commission interpreted the Court’s decision to require that all communications that merely encourage someone to vote be defined as “get-out-the-vote,” unless such exhortation was “incidental” to the communication. See Definition of Federal Election Activity, 75 Fed. Reg. 55257, 55263-55264 (September 10, 2010). In addition, the Commission also refined the regulation to provide a specific list of activities that would constitute “get-out-the-vote” activities, including informing potential voters about times when polling places were open, providing assistance with early voting or absentee ballots, offering or arranging transportation to the polls and any other activities that “assist” potential voters to vote. 11 C.F.R. § 100.24(a)(3)(i)(B)-(D).

- 1) The Exhortation to Vote in the proposed mailing is “incidental”

It is clear that the exhortation to vote in the mailing “Vote for Democratic Sean Wiley November 6” meets the “incidental” standard in the Commission’s regulations. First, the mailing consists two pages. One entire page of the mailing contains several paragraphs of information regarding Sean Wiley’s positions on issues and biographical information regarding the state candidate. The exhortation is one sentence on the mail panel and is clearly “incidental” to the entire piece. Of course, this mailing appears to be exactly the type of mailing provided for in the Commission’s regulations as “incidental” at 11 C.F.R. § 100.24(3)(ii)(A) in which “[a] mailer praises the public service record of mayoral candidate X and/or discusses his campaign platform. The mailer concludes by reminding recipients to “Vote X on November 4th.”

2) Providing general information on Voter ID Laws should not be covered by the “get-out-the-vote” rules

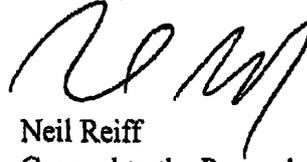

The widespread enactment of voter identification laws by the states is a relatively new phenomenon that has generally occurred subsequent to the passage of the BCRA. When the FEC originally promulgated its definition of “get-out-the-vote,” the regulation was generally understood to cover those activities that “assisted” a voter in the act of voting. Some of these activities were obvious, such as transporting, or offering to transport voters to the polling place. Others involved informational activities, such as providing information regarding the time of polling places were open, and the location of polling places. The Commission has now revised and refined this portion of its regulation at 2 U.S.C. § 100.24(3)(i)(B)–(D). This portion of the regulation includes three general categories of activity including an informational section, a “facilitation” section and a “catch all” section. Each of the information provisions provide information on how to vote, and each of the facilitation sections provide actual assistance in the act of voting. Thus, despite the amendment of the “get-out-the-vote” regulation to address the concerns of the Shays III court, the standard understanding of “get-out-the-vote” activities that were intended to “facilitate” the actual act of voting were generally left untouched by the Commission. Thus, it is clear that the Commission’s regulations are clearly aimed at regulating those activities that are intended to increase voter turnout.¹ In this instance, the information provided by the party is not intended to increase turnout but rather to ensure that the voter can legally exercise their right to vote once they arrive at the polls.

The provision of voter identification activity does not appear to be covered by the Commission’s regulations. Rather than facilitating or assisting the voter in casting their vote, providing general legal information about the recently enacted voter identification law is more akin to “protect the vote” activities that ensure that a voter is not “disenfranchised” by knowing their rights or ensuring that they understand their requirements to be eligible to vote. Such activities have generally been understood to be administrative costs of a party committee and not subsumed within the Commission’s “get-out-the-vote” regulations. It would certainly be an absurd result to federalize a communication regarding non-federal candidates merely because of the inclusion of information regarding an individual’s voting rights.

¹ It should be noted that we can locate no reference to the provision of Voter ID information as a “get-out-the-vote” activity can be located in any of the discussion within the administrative record of the revised or original regulations. In addition, it should be noted that, despite the catch-all language found in subsection (D) of the revised regulation, the Commission did characterize the new regulation as a “comprehensive list of covered activities.” 75 Fed. Reg. at 55263. Thus, while there was a catch-all provision added to the GOTV regulations subsequent to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, no apparent explanation was provided as to the purpose of the catch-all provision.

Thank you for your time and prompt attention to this matter. If you have any questions regarding this request, feel free to contact me at (202) 479-1111.

Sincerely yours,

FROM ERIE, FOR ERIE

FROM ERIE, FOR ERIE

A native of Erie, Sean Willey is dedicated to making our community a place where families want to live and raise their children, just as he is raising his here. Born into humble beginnings, Sean's early years were spent on Erie's west side, days filled with family, a commitment to the community and hard work. After graduating college, Sean began his career in the building material industry and capped a thirteen-year career by accepting an opportunity to serve the greater Erie community as the Director of Administration of Erie County.

Sean returned to the private sector as Director of the Saint Vincent Foundation and Government Affairs at the Saint Vincent Health System, but he remains a committed community leader, serving on the Allied Pediatric Health Steering Committee, the Northwest Pennsylvania Workforce Investment Board, Youth Leadership Institute of Erie, Erie County Industrial Development Authority, Erie County Economic Development Committee and the Sons of Lake Erie.

In the State Senate, Sean Willey will represent Erie's values, not Harrisburg's. As your State Senator, Sean will have five priorities:

CREATING JOBS

Sean has the experience in the private sector and government to create a business-friendly environment in Pennsylvania so good jobs are not sent overseas. In the state Senate, Sean will fight the outsourcing of jobs by backing a 'Made in Pennsylvania' tax credit, help to close corporate tax loopholes that hurt Pennsylvania workers and support new tax credits, eliminate regulation and cut taxes to help small businesses grow.

IMPROVING HEALTH CARE

As an expert in healthcare and hospital administration, Sean knows that both patients and doctors need to find common ground in the healthcare debate. As State Senator, Willey will fight to ensure that people throughout Pennsylvania have access to quality, affordable healthcare, while medical providers can function effectively.

SUPPORTING SCHOOLS

Sean and his wife have enrolled their three children in the Millcreek Public School System. He believes that the Commonwealth has a responsibility to provide every child with a quality education. As State Senator, Sean will fight to restore education funding for Erie schools and ensure that every child is offered a better future.

HOLDING THE LINE ON TAXES

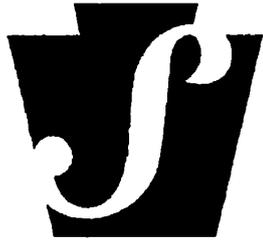

Sean's experience in government and working in the private sector have given him an understanding of the balance needed between government and taxes. In the Senate, Sean will ensure that our tax dollars are used efficiently and effectively to provide needed services without waste.

MAKING EVERY COMMUNITY SAFER

Sean believes that everyone, every man, woman and child, deserves to be safe from violence. In the State Senate, Sean will lead efforts to provide our law enforcement officers and educators with the equipment and training they need to ensure that our children are protected at home, in school and online.
