10	Dear Messrs. Engle, Kappel, and Brand:
11	We are responding to the advisory opinion request you submitted on behalf of 12	Dan Winslow ("Requestor"), a candidate for United States Senate. Requestor asks
13	whether his principal campaign committee may apply 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i) to contributions
14	the committee receives from same-sex couples married under state law. The Commission
15	concludes that Section 3 of the Defense of Marriage Act ("DOMA") <sup>1</sup> prohibits applying
16	11 C.F.R. 110.1(i) to these couples.
17	Background
18	The facts presented in this advisory opinion are based on your letter dated April 5,
19	2013, and your email of April 9, 2013 (collectively "AOR"), and public disclosure
20	reports filed with the Commission.
21	Mr. Winslow is a candidate in the April 30, 2013, Massachusetts special primary
22	election. Dan Winslow for US Senate Committee ("Committee") is Mr. Winslow's
23	principal campaign committee.
24	The advisory opinion request states that same-sex couples married under state law
25	have sent contribution checks to the Committee. (AOR at 1.) For example, Requestor
26	states that the Committee has received a contribution check drawn on Mr. Gerard R.
27	Gershonowitz's individual bank account with instructions to attribute the contribution

1	separately and equally between him and Howard P. Johnson, the man to whom he is
2	married under Massachusetts law. (See AOR at 2 n.1.) <sup>2</sup> Requestor seeks an opinion
3	from the Commission as to whether, pursuant to 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i), the Committee may
4	attribute this and similar contributions to each member of the couple per the contributors'
5	requests, even when the contributed funds are drawn from the income of only one of
6	them.
7	Question Presented
8	When a candidate's committee receives contributions from same-sex couples
9	married under state law, may the committee apply 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i) to these
10	contributions?
11	Legal Analysis and Conclusions
12	No. As discussed below, so long as the relevant provisions of DOMA remain in
13	effect, the Committee may not apply 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i) to contributions from same-sex
14	couples married under state law.
15	The Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("FECA"), provides
16	that "[n]o person shall make a contribution in the name of another person or knowingly
17	permit his name to be used to effect such a contribution, and no person shall knowingly

&lt;sup>2</sup> The Committee has also received contributions from the joint bank account of a same-sex couple married under state law with written instructions to attribute the contribution equally between each member of the couple. (See AOR at 2 n.1.) A contribution from a joint account is attributed in accordance with 11 C.F.R. 110.1(k), regardless of the marital status of the contributors. See Explanation and Justification for Final Rules on Contribution and Expenditure Limitations and Prohibitions; Contributions by Persons and Multicandidate Committees, 52 Fed. Reg. 760, 766 (Jan. 9, 1987) (explaining that the attribution regulations do not require each contributor to "ha[ve] sufficient personal funds in the joint account to cover his or her portion of the joint contribution because each account holder enjoys the right to draw upon the entire amount in the account"). As such, under existing Commission regulations, same-sex couples (whether married under state law or not) may as joint account holders make contributions in a manner similar to that afforded spouses under 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i).

1	accept a contribution made by one person in the name of another person." 2 U.S.C. 441f;
2	see also 11 C.F.R. 110.4(b). A "contribution in the name of another" includes "[m]aking
3	a contribution and attributing as the source of money another person when in fact
4	the contributor is the source." 11 C.F.R. 110.4(b)(2)(ii).
5	Notwithstanding the prohibition on contributions in the name of another, a
6	Commission regulation governing "[c]ontributions by spouses" provides that "limitations
7	on contributions shall apply separately to contributions made by each spouse even if
8	only one spouse has income." 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i). Thus, under Section 110.1(i), a spouse
9	with no separate income may make a contribution in his or her own name "through the
10	checking account of the other spouse." Advisory Opinion 1980-11 (Phillips) (applying
11	prior version of 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i)); Advisory Opinion 1980-67 (Long) at 3-4 (noting that
12	separate spousal contributions are permissible "even in a single income family," but that
13	if such contributions do not satisfy all requirements for spousal attribution, they are 14	unlawful contributions in the name of another).
15	The term "spouse" is not defined in FECA or the Commission's regulations.
16	DOMA, however, provides that "[i]n determining the meaning of any Act of Congress, or 17	of any ruling, regulation, or interpretation of the various agencies of the United
18	States, the word 'spouse' refers only to a person of the opposite sex who is a husband
19	or a wife." 1 U.S.C. 7. That definition controls Requestor's question and requires the 20	Commission to conclude that the Committee may not apply 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i) to
21	contributions from spouses who are not "of the opposite sex."
22	Requestor correctly notes that the Commission has previously relied on state law

1	to supply the meaning of terms not explicitly defined in FECA or Commission
2	regulations. See, e.g., Advisory Opinion 2008-05 (Holland & Knight) (noting that the
3	Commission relies on state law to distinguish a partnership from a corporation). The
4	Commission is, however, precluded from looking to the law of a state that permits same-
5	sex marriage to define or interpret the word "spouse" as used in 11 C.F.R. 110.1(i), for
6	such an interpretation is precisely what Congress intended to foreclose in Section 3 of 7	DOMA. See H.R. Rep. 104-664 at 10-11, 29-30 (1996) ("If [a] State eventually
8	recognizes homosexual marriage, Section 3 will mean simply that that marriage will not
9	be recognized as a marriage for purposes of federal law.").
